QUESTION 1. Read the following PASSAGE and answer ALL questions below: (B)

It is truism, and along history, science was not developed in a random way at an early stage of human civilization. Today, with the development of technology, science becomes more useful for all people. That is, science provides us with millions of instruments where each one has numerous functions in our life. Scientists make use of knowledge of mathematics, physics, chemistry, biology, statistics, etc. to build their theories to be applied in multiple fields of life. Of course, still today, theories could not address some problems occurring in universe; the fact that allows people to believe in the great power of God. The door gets closed in front of those who assume perfection all the time. If so, there are no hidden problematic ideas in science available today. The best thing gained from science is 'technology' which opens, and closes, doors for many people to live happily. Everything is available at hand vanishing all physical borders of nations worldwide. One can attend classes in Michigan from home in Yemen enjoying both time and place while studying. On this base, no one can deny the role of technology, and science before that, in improving his/her life conditions from A to Z. To your knowledge, one may find people complaining from science, and technology in particular, for its capability in controlling their matters day and night creating problems for them. Such people are still in need to appreciate (this) science for its capability in protecting others from such doings once they use it.
